URBAN DISPLACEMENT & OUTSIDE OF CAMP DESK REVIEW

CCCM CLUSTER
SUPPORTING DISPLACED COMMUNITIES
www.cccmcluster.org

This CCCM desk review on urban displacement and outside of camp contexts was conducted from July 2013 to March 2014. It aims to explore how CCCM resources and experiences of camp-based responses can be applied to addressing the needs of displaced populations outside of camps, in particular in urban environments. As part of the ECHO-funded Camp Coordination and Camp Management (CCCM) Cluster project Enhancing the Coordination of Camp Management and Camp Coordination Intervention in Emergencies, this desk review first identifies the main gaps in humanitarian responses in outside of camp contexts based on a literature review. Using case studies, the second part identifies a number of CCCM-related experiences of community support activities which are already being used for outside of camps contexts or which could be easily adapted. The final section presents a possible model of CCCM engagement outside of camps called the Centre for Communication and Community Management.
